I have been treated by several physicians in the past year for the following medical conditions: Parkinson's Disease (PD), Spinal Stenosis - Lumbar, Hypertension, Sinusitis/Allergy Syndrome, Diverticulitis, Endocrine Dysfunction ie. Secondary Hypogonadism, Abnormal Gait, and Skin Allergies, to name a few. Some of the problems have been helped a little with prescription drugs, but very few of the symptoms had disappeared. I want to tell you a quick story that defies pharmaceutical and AMA beliefs.

On September 20, I began eating three pieces of healthy chocolate per day. Here are some of my results:

- Systolic BP dropped 40 pts, diastolic 20 pts. Remains @ 125/75.
- Lost seven pounds. No diet change.
- Balance and dizziness from Parkinson's Disease totally went away. I can walk again without help.
- Tremors of hands from Parkinson's Disease greatly improved.
- Pain in left leg from lumbar stenosis improved greatly, most days 100% gone.
- Severe sinus headaches disappeared. Now on day 30, no sinus problems.
- Usual fall "hay fever" for years, gone first time in 15 years back in Indiana.
- Skin allergies disappeared, especially on head.
- Chronic fatigue, the 4:00 pm wall, gone. Much improved energy all day.
- My vision, which had been declining, has returned. No more floaters.
- Colon pain and lower abdominal pains have mostly gone away.
- On November 11th, my cholesterol test showed a 60 pt. drop, with best HDL ever, 74 with best ratio ever 3.6. Also, my blood sugar which had been increasing, dropped in 60 days from 104 to 80.
- On December 10th, I started drinking the healthy energy drink. It not only picked up my energy level, it eased off my lumbar pain that I got from lifting too much.
